

WASHINGTON POST
AND TIMES HERALD

APR 5 1964

FOIAb3b

CPYRGHT

12 U.S. Officials Here Get Award

Twelve Washington area Government career officials have received Career Education Awards from the National Institute of Public Affairs, enabling them to attend a university for a year of graduate study.

The winners, who are among 43 selected nationally, have a choice of attending one of five universities under a Ford Foundation grant. They were chosen because of exceptional ability and high potential.

Area recipients, and the college they will attend, are as follows:

Alvin J. Temin, of 10625 Lombardy rd., Silver Spring, construction management engineer for the Coast Guard, Stanford;	Kung-Lee Wang, 6020 Broad st., Brookmont, research coordinator for the Bureau of Mines, Harvard.	John F. Hennessey, of 2127 Griffith rd., Falls Church, CIA research analyst, Harvard;	James Lefter, 1605 S. 28th st., Arlington, chief of the structural division in Veterans Administration, University of Virginia.
Ronald Brand, of 4420 Medford dr., Annandale, assistant executive officer for the Division of Community Health Services of the Public Health Service, Princeton;	Robert C. Bryan, 5515 Kathleen pl., Springfield, contract specialist for the Soil Conservation Service, University of Chicago;	Charles A. Peters, 2538 N. Greenbrier st., Arlington, CIA research analyst, Princeton.	Martin Convisser, of 3550 Valley dr., Alexandria, budget examiner for the Budget Bureau, Harvard;
George M. Fleming, 7316 Jervis st., Springfield, supervisory accountant for the Forest Service, Stanford;	Richard A. Greenstein, 12411 Kinship Turn, Bowie, management analyst for the Internal Revenue Service, University of Chicago.	Lavor A. Neucnswander, of 11100 Federal ct., Rockville, supervisory investigator for the Civil Service Commission, Stanford, and Hugh Nugent, 4280 S. 35th st., Arlington, Justice Department, Harvard.	